

The trade magazine for tool, mould & die making

Service with an old tradition and the importance of the precious “little things”

Source: Lach Diamant

Diamond tools manufacturer, Lach Diamant in Hanau – a town, formerly well known for precious jewellery – emphasises on how important the “little things” are, for example; repairing, resetting and regrinding of natural diamond dressing tools.

The company offers resetting and regrinding services for single point diamonds and polished profile diamonds of all systems, like those from Fortuna, Schautd, Jung and Diaform. This service is offered to all metal-grinding shops and toolmakers, and also provided for third-party brands, the company says.

Lach also has a plant in Lichtenau and its US branch specialises in providing this service for PCD, PCBN and CBN tools.

» Lach Diamant,
Hanau, Germany.
lach-diamant.de